

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an information processing apparatus, when a plurality of images are selected by a selection device, a display controller causes reduced images to be displayed so that the reduced images corresponding to the images are arranged on the screen in a designated order in accordance with the order in which the images were selected by the selection device. The reduced images of the selected images are displayed arranged on the screen in the order of selection.